As a staff development professional and a Certified Conscious Discipline Instructor through Loving Guidance Inc., Beth knows about working together, collaborating, and partnering to achieve goals. In her work with teachers, parents and community professionals she exemplifies the best practice in supporting a child’s healthy development.

Programs cannot adequately meet the needs of children unless others are able to recognize the importance of the child’s family and develop strategies to work effectively with all families. When teachers are able to work with other professionals to support healthy child development then children, families and the community are all strengthened.

Yet, effective partnerships do not just happen. Beth will share lessons learned and offer suggestions for enhancing your professional relationships as you work to enrich the everyday lives of children and their families in our communities.

What others have to say

““My staff has benefited greatly from Beth Reeder’s in-service presentations. They remarked to me it was the best in service they had attended. The information she shared gave all of us a renewed sense of the value of our profession. We implemented some of her strategies and carried them out through out the remainder of our year. We were motivated and inspired to be child care professionals.””  — Pam Harrod, Director Joyful Noise Academy

““Beth Reeder presents trainings for Child Start on a regular basis and always receives great reviews on her evaluations. Child Care providers and staff request to have Beth speak again and again. Beth is very knowledgeable on may subjects in the early childhood field.””  — Marcy D. Cone, Early Childhood Service Manager, Child Start Inc.

““Beth has a great presentation style and really knows her content. All of our staff and parents that have heard Beth speak multiple times are able to take the information and apply it to their everyday experiences with children.””  — Laurie Spence, Director of Wichita State University Child Development Center, Wichita State University

““I teach a course for Butler Community College’s Early Childhood Education Department on Interacting with Young Children. For one of the class sessions, Beth talks with my students about Conscious Discipline. The students do a written review on all class speakers and videos, including assigning a letter grade to the video or presentation. Beth’s presentation always gets straight “A’s”, many of which are “A++”! Even students who have already seen Beth present on the topic say they gained something new from it and enjoyed it.””  — Anne Harris MS ECE, Butler Community College ECE Dept.

““Beth Reeder is an energetic, engaging speaker. Our faculty and staff have enjoyed working with her for the past year as we have received training in Conscious Discipline. She has offered her expertise to each teacher via email and phone because she genuinely wants to see each of succeed. My teachers rave about the training with Ms Reeder and ask for more.””  — Becky O’Hearn, Wichita Collegiate School Director

““I have found Beth Reeder’s professional development events to be both engaging and highly informative. Beth’s relaxed instruction style puts learners at ease and her knowledge leads participants to increased levels of skill.””  — Jennifer Hecker, Kansas Quality Rating System Director
Conscious Discipline® - A comprehensive classroom management program and a social and emotional curriculum devised to improve your daily life. It is based on current brain research, child development information, and developmentally appropriate practices. Conscious Discipline® has been specifically designed to make changes in the lives of adults first, which directly impact the lives of the children involved for the better.

Let Them Have Dirt - This workshop is all about creating the perfect outdoor classroom for young children. Beth will share her journey, the ups and downs, and the hope of helping others create their outdoor classroom. Participants will determine what their agency goal is, and align with other agencies within the state with common goals. You will be able to start planning your outdoor classroom as Beth shares how she and a group she has worked with got started, the materials and visions shared, and the hope of a brighter future for all involved.

Get Involved - Everyone wants parents to get more involved, but how can it be done effectively while still keeping focused on the daily responsibilities that we all hold? Parents will gain insight on how imperative it is to join in on the childhood experiences, why they should get involved with their children and the rules they need to follow.

Professionals in the Child Care World - Having a clean and professional looking center as well as meeting the needs of the children must be the number one priority for a successful child care center. Customer Service issues will be discussed as well as family programs. You will be able to gain insightful tools for age appropriate lesson plans, observe the expectations of facilities, health and safety issues that may occur, as well as hand washing and correct diapering procedures.

Go For the Positive - While looking at your team’s customer service attitude together you will see what is affecting your work place environment. You will be able to take a look at the different stresses involved and how your team can handle them, as well as what can be done to improve the overall environment. Participants will have the opportunity to first find out how vulnerable they are to stress in their lives and in the workplace and what can be done about these stressors. Basic time management skills will also be discussed in order to improve the workplace environment.

We chose Beth Reeder to come to our school because it was a perfect opportunity for everyone on staff to have the exact same training and problem-solve together using the concept of Conscious Discipline. Beth was funny, adaptable, and helpful to all of our situations we threw at her that day. What a way to do some team-building as well!!! Alicia Kassens, B.S. Training customized for your agency and staff needs

Your Staff Training Dollars Go Further

Beth will customize trainings to meet your staff and agency needs while providing more training for your agency dollars.
Helping Your Training Dollars Go Further ...

Why bring a Professional Trainer to my agency?

With agency budgets being trimmed and staff training needs staying the same...you do have an alternative to costly conferences and seminars...bring in a Professional Trainer to train your entire staff at one time.

You are currently able to negotiate the price of the training to stay within your agency’s budget. Agencies with small budgets can still afford wonderful training.

An Alternate Approach

Customized training allows for the agency and administration to set the objectives and needs of the training to their site(s). As the facilitator of the training you can set the time, location, goals and objectives that you want for your staff. As a Professional trainer I customize the training to your staffs’ needs and desires.

Additionally training can be set up for parents as well parent meetings so the learning process is set across the whole child’s life.

“We have Beth come to our center for staff training. My staff loves when Beth comes. Its high energy, entertaining, and always informational. Beth has a way of making you think outside the box. As the Director, it is more cost effective to have her come to our facility than to send the staff to outside training. I appreciate the way she asks for my input on the objective/goals of the training.” Yvonna Nave Director Cornerstone Childcare Center & Preschool, Lyons KS

Staff Training and Development does NOT have to be boring!!
